Case Disposal Rate: Justice Dave Most Efficient

New Delhi: Chief Justice of India T S Thakur recently conducted a first-ever internal study to assess the individual contribution of 13 senior judges, heading two or three-judge benches in the Supreme Court, in reducing pendency of cases. The conclusion: five of the judges chipped away from pending cases while the others added to it.

Tackling pendency was always seen as a collective task in the Supreme Court and individual efforts of judges were seldom focused upon.

But CJI Thakur, after taking over as chief justice on October 2, asked the SC registry to determine how each of the 13 judges had performed in terms of disposal of cases in the past six months – from July to December 2015.

However, the index may not be an indicator of how the judges performed as the judge who has handled most cases involving constitutional questions of law or Constitutional issues, requiring hearings running into days and impeding the bench from disposing of a large number of cases, while others may have handled simpler cases allowing them to score high.

The study had just three parameters: number of cases listed before the judge, number of cases in which notice was issued (meaning that many cases were introduced into the justice delivery system) and number of cases disposed.

The difference between the number of cases a judge introduced into the system by issuing notice and the number of cases disposed of showed his disposal rate. If the number is positive, the judge disposed of more cases than he retained; if negative, the judge contributed to the pendency.

The list compiled by the registry took into account the disposal by the judges till 11.25am on December 12, 2015. From the list compiled, only five of the 13 judges chip away from pendency. They, in order of disposal ranking, are – Justices A R Dave, Ranjan Gogoi, CJJ

Thakur, Madan B Lokur and J S Khehar reduced pendency while the remaining eight contributed to it.

Justice Dipak Misra added the highest number of cases to pendency, followed by P C Joshi, V Sankaranarayanan, FM I Kalifulla, M Y Edappa, V G Gowda and J Chelameswar. Justice Sunil retired on December 30.

Disposal of cases since 2011 by the Supreme Court also saw wide fluctuations.

In 2011, it was 36,472 cases; 33,221 in 2012; 39,747 in 2013;

43,437 in 2014 and 33,886 in 2015.

Verdicts in the fray and actor Akshay Kumar, Deepika Padukone and Priyanka Chopra, sources said.

The search for a new brand icon began after the Union tourism ministry confirmed on Wednesday that it would not renew its contract with the advertising agency which had been handling the campaign as the face of the campaign.

At the same time, sources close to Bachchan said that the government was yet to make a formal proposal to the 73-year-old actor.

The speculation regarding his acceptance of the new role might have been triggered by a tweet from an unverified Twitter account that said he (Bachchan) "was willing to be the face of Incredible India," the sources said.

Bachchan's "non-controversial image", ministry insiders said, has loaded in his favour, adding that the advertising agency which had been handling the campaign as the face of the campaign.

Aamir responded saying he respected the government's decision to "discontinue" with his services while still serving him.

"I am grateful that he never charged any money for the campaign. It's the prerogative of the government to decide whether it needs a brand ambassador, and if so, who that ambassador should be," Aamir said.

Roorkee (Dehradoon): In a big blow to the two major political parties in Uttarakhand, independent candidates have won the maximum number of seats in the recently concluded zila panchayat elections in Haridwar district, results of which were declared on Thursday. While Bahujan Samaj Party has won 16 of the 47 seats, ruling Congress has had to settle for a distant second with 11 seats. It was a come as a shock that BJP won just three seats.

The BJP camp was jubilant. "It (our victory) is a befitting reply by the citizens of Haridwar district to Congress, which had tried to destroy us. We are sure we will constitute our own board this time also," said former MLA Mohammad Shahzad.

In 2010, too, the BJP had formed its own board with the support of inde-
